

Improving Health Outcomes through Patient Education

Patient Education to Improve Access to Information

By Lou Naidu

Sutton Clinical Commissioning Group .... Who?

NHS Sutton CCG is a membership organisation made up of 25 GP practices in the London borough of Sutton, serving a population of 195,000 people.

We are responsible for the local NHS budget, making sure it is spent on the right services that give the best health outcomes for Sutton residents.

We commission a range of healthcare services, including hospitals, general practice, community and mental health services.

We are working together with many partners to build the best affordable healthcare for Sutton.

Patient Education: What is it?

The programme includes a range of planned educational activities which include short talks and an information market place.

Designed to improve patients' health, knowledge and awareness of the importance and benefits of self-care, along with a better understanding of support available.

Engaging, involving and educating the people of Sutton is an essential part of our core CCG business.

Great opportunity to meet, talk and share information with local people.

Aims of our Patient Education

Project targeted individuals identified as being at risk of becoming unwell, requiring hospital treatment and being most in need of additional support. Aimed to:

- Lower the demand for General Practice
- Remove barriers to accessing local services
- Empower local people to self-care and self-manage
- Reduce health inequalities
- Improve health outcomes

Proactive primary care, education and information are key to patient care. This requires investment in prevention.

Partnership in Patient Education

Improving the health of communities requires a broader look at health and the things that impact on it. Our sessions have been specifically designed to have a more holistic approach to health.

Sessions are planned and delivered in partnership with colleagues across general practice, pharmacy, community services, public health, social services, acute trusts, schools, colleges and the voluntary sector to provide pro-active health education.

- 79 different services, teams, groups and organisations make these sessions 'fabulous'
