

CREATING MEMORIES FOR CHILDREN AND YOUNG ADULTS IN ACUTE HOSPITAL TRUST

Category: Personalisation of care

Palliative Care CNS: Tracy Wells

Palliative Care Team Leader: Heather Wright

Twitter : @hevwri40

Medical Secretaries: Dawn Taylor & Karen Condon

BACKGROUND

Children were informed of their parents illness in a four bedded bay with only a curtain for privacy. The trust knew this was unacceptable

There was a growing need for a dedicated space for health care professionals to break significant news within a trusted and safe environment

CQC report highlighted concern that there was no private space to hold difficult conversations

Comments were received from staff, patient and families that there was no privacy when receiving significant news

METHOD

Communication with local hospice, national child bereavement charities how to implement bereavement tools and how to improve support.

Discussed concerns with staff, patients and relatives the impact of lack of private space when receiving significant news.

Discussion with both trust and charity board to gain support , promote importance of project

Memory boxes , books, tears and stars where promoted throughout the hospital trust

RESULTS AND LOOKING FOWARD

Our completion of memory boxes , books and workbook have increased by 50 per cent since opening of Dennis Den

Positive feedback : A beautiful room to hold our wedding....a day I will always remember Thank you for giving me time and space to tell my 10 year old my cancer had return away from the ward

Families can now skype to be involved in family occasions

Other specialist units are implementing the importance of memory boxes, private areas to break significant news within the trust